Re: Delvecchio v. Corbett, et. al.; Case No. 1:13-cv-
04325-RLM

Dear Honorable Madam:

I am one of the attorneys and trial counsel for the Plaintiff in the above-referenced action. I am in receipt of the Court's scheduling order, dated May 16, 2014, scheduling trial for July 14, 2014. I appreciate the Court's efforts to provide the parties with an early trial date and a prompt resolution of this lawsuit. However, I am scheduled to be on vacation the week of July 14, 2014. I am joining my wife for a health conference in Anaheim, California which starts July 17th. Our hotel is booked. My wife made arrangements with her employer, a hospital, to take off the entire week, which will be our summer vacation (actually our only vacation). We plan on leaving July 12th and returning July 20th. I am available the following week and the rest of July and August. It would be greatly appreciated if the trial could be rescheduled. I have consulted with Defendants' counsel, Jon M. Kessel. Today, Mr. Kessel advised me that he would not consent at this time, although I should try him again on Friday. However, I wanted to advise the Court as soon as possible of my request.

Thank you for your consideration.

Respectively submitted,
